

DT

Vikings are renowned across the world for their banquet feasts with wild boar, fish, meat and plenty of vegetables. Have a go at making your own Blackberry Patties fit for a Viking banquet!

Ingredients

500g of bread dough

A handful of blackberries, and a little butter and honey

Method

Wash the blackberries thoroughly before use. Then, flatten egg-sized pieces of bread dough with your hands (or flatten them on a floured chopping board), making them as thin as possible. Next, place the berries on top of the dough, add a small amount of butter and a drizzle of honey. Sprinkle some water around the edge of the dough, fold it in half, and seal it firmly by pressing the edges together. Place your patty in a medium-hot pan, and cook until golden, turning occasionally. Serve hot or cold. Be careful to let the patties cool before you eat them!

Write your own Viking saga about your favourite character. Remember to include the skills you have looked at during your English sessions.

Art

Viking long ships were used in battle, and were long, light, and slender so they could move around quickly. They had a square sail and a mast, but could also be rowed if there was no wind.

Create an interesting collage of: a Viking scene, stormy sea, long boat and a raid!

Science

Vikings travelled long distances by sea but were not scared of falling off the edge of the Earth, even though they did not know the Earth was spherical. They also thought the sun and moon were horse-drawn chariots that followed each other through the sky around the Earth. The Vikings thought that the lands of the Earth were surrounded by a huge sea.

How much of the Earth is land and sea?

Were the Vikings correct?

We now know that the Earth, sun and moon are different sizes. Can you make scale models of the Earth, sun and moon?

Geography

Viking raids began in England in the late 8th century, primarily on monasteries. The first monastery to be raided was in 793 at Lindisfarne, off the northeast coast. Create a map of Britain showing how the Anglo-Saxon kingdoms changed when the Vikings invaded.
