RE: Perry Hall School Closure

Dear Parents and Carers,

We have received the following information from Wolverhampton City Council updating schools on the weather situation for the coming days:

- Snow is expected from this evening and overnight until around 9.00 tomorrow morning. Current forecasts are predicting 10-15cm with potential for 20cm drifts.
- There will likely be widespread disruption to the road network with main roads being subjected to compacted snow and side roads becoming potentially impassable.
- The council will be devoting its resources to the gritting and ploughing of priority routes.
- Considerable strain is expected on emergency services.

In light of the above, the City Council recommends early consideration for closing our school tomorrow on the grounds of protecting the health, safety and wellbeing of the school community.

We will therefore close school tomorrow in light of the above and to ensure the safety of all our pupils, families and staff.

We hope this early decision will support you in your plans.

You will receive an arbor link with information for your child's learning if you wish to access the optional learning.

Thank you for your understanding and please take care of yourselves in anticipation of the forecast.

Kind regards,

L. Fellows
Headteacher
